SOUTH WOODSTOCK

— Mrs. Olive Davis, Corres. —

Snow, snow, snow, that's all we know.

We are all in the same boat. It rains we will all float.

We took a ride to the northern part of the town. We observed some places that really should be shoveled out and it's roofs attended to before the rains come. Near Johnny's Bridge one flat roof has a terrific amount of snow upon it. The cottage beside it with a pitched roof also needs attention. The crust we had the first part of the winter, adds to the weight. Look out for your camp.

Ellis Davis had Benny Benson shovel the sap house roof free of snow. There were 4 or 5 feet on it.

Mrs. Leonard Andrews attended the retirement party held for Henry Stone, also. There would have been others but the snowstorm and wind blow prevented their attendance.

Donald Mason's son plowed us out Friday morning with the crawler tractor, for which we were very grateful. We hadn't been out since Monday. The drifts around the back shed door were about 2 feet above it. The kitchen window was very nearly covered. This one drift was made completely from this storm as it was shoveled out after the first one blocked us in.

SUNDAY RIVER

— Mrs. R. M. Frost, Corres. —

Old Time Wm. Feb. 1968 Sunday River

Mrs. R. M. Frost

It began on a Monday morning. And busily most of the week

Heaping field and highway

With a silence deep and white. Causing the school bus to be missing, also the U. S. mail.

The doctor got to his patients by snowmobile by gas.

The courageous baker though twenty-four hours late got here with food a plenty. So we are in line shape.

White hanks are up over our windows.

The sides of the roads are nine feet high.

So in order to look over you'll have to fly.

Our November eighth first snow started all this.

Twenty-two storms have followed. One hundred sixty-four inches or thirteen feet, eight and one half inches have been shoveled through.

The breaking crew got tired but so had reinforcements to help out.

With Fridays dawn we saw light. Soon the sun brought delight.

This is a week in nineteen sixty nine.

That will linger long in many a mind.

The road to Ketchum is not open but the crew worked most of Sunday but have got to get a bulldozer as they can not get through.

Mr. Cole of Falmouth and two boys went as far as they could by car then walked the rest of the way to Ketchum to shovel off the roofs of two camps Saturday. More are waiting to get to their camps and shovels.

Christian Science
"It is God that girdeth me with strength and maketh my way perfect."

These words from Psalms will be read this Sunday as part of the Christian Science Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "Man". The service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Main and Tenth Streets, Berlin, N. H., begins at 11 a. m. All are welcome.

Among related passages to be read from the denominational textbook is the following: "God expresses in man the infinite idea forever developing itself, broadening and rising higher and higher from a boundless basis. Mind manifests all that exists in the infinitude of Truth. We know no more of man as the true divine image and likeness than we know of God" ("Science and health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy).

"Making Sound Judgments" will be broadcast over station WMOU,

Sunday, March 9, at 8:15 a. m.

Other programs for women include a Wives' Human Relations Workshop, which meets half-days at Bethel. Laboratories for teen-agers, a day camp, and other children's facilities also are available on the campus.

NTL Institute programs in West Los Angeles and Lake Arrowhead, California, are co-sponsored with the Western Training Laboratory and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Other NTL Institute training laboratories are held at Stephens College in Columbia, Missouri, Monticello College in Zion, Illinois, and the Holderness School in Plymouth, New Hampshire.

A typical day at a training laboratory includes morning, afternoon, and evening sessions at which participants engage in such activities as the T (for Training) Group, participative exercises, and theory sessions. With varying degrees of emphasis, the laboratory aims toward free expression and better listening; improved skill in group membership and leadership; increased effectiveness in intergroup collaboration, problem analysis, and organizational change process.

In the T group, 10 to 15 individuals form a group on their own terms and in their own way. Through this unstructured process, participants come to learn how groups are formed, the phases of group development, and the roles different individuals play in a group. Because understanding is derived from examining common experience and the behavior of participants as it unfolds in the situation, the lesson is an unusually personal and vivid one.

In addition to learning about group processes, members of the T Group come to understand more about their own patterns of behavior in group situations. Each T Group is assigned a trainer qualified in the behavioral sciences who aids and maximizes learning.

A summer schedule, including fees and other information, can be obtained from the NTL Institute for Applied Behavioral Science, 1201 Sixteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WHITE - DELANO

St. Theresa's Church in Mexico was the scene of a high noon ceremony on Feb. 22 when Miss Sandra Phyllis White, Portland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman White, East Andover, became the bride of Wayne M. Delano, Portland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Delano, Reed's Ferry, N. H. Rev. Charles Desrochers performed the double ring service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length white lace gown with sequins on the bodice and hem. It had a scalloped neckline and long pointed sleeves. She wore a shoulder length tulle veil with English illusion leaves, centered with flowers of love, with pearl trim. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and red roses.

The matron of honor and two bridesmaids wore identical gowns, headaddresses and carried similar bouquets. Mrs. Gary Marston, East Andover, classmate of the bride served as matron of honor. The bride's two sisters, Mrs. Robert Slack, Paoli, Pa., and Miss Norma White, East Andover, were bridesmaids. They wore satin peau gowns, high neckline with ruffle lace trim and short fitted sleeves. The empire waistline supported the floor length A line skirt with a Dior bow at the back waistline. Small bows in matching color and fabric supported circular face veils. The Matron of honor wore samaron rose and the attendants royal blue satin peau. Each young lady carried a colonial bouquet with matching streamers.

Scott Delano, Reed's Ferry, N. H., acted as best man for his brother. Ushers were friends of the groom, Terry Mitchell and David Fournier, South Paris.

The bride's mother wore a blue street length dress with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a street length dress with white accessories. Each had a corsage of white carnations. The groom's two grandmothers, Mrs. Erna Delano, Oxford and Mrs. Victoria Swallow, Reed's Ferry, N. H., also were honored guests.

Following the ceremony a buffet reception for approximately 100 guests was held at the American Legion Home at West Peru.

Mrs. Collista Morgan, Cor.

March 1, and I am on my porch, snow piled high, so high, that unless I am standing I can not see the road in any direction. It is hard to believe with the sun so warm and beautiful and March prancing in on "lamb's toes" that the white "stuff" did upset the whole way of life for several days.

It is said that "Man's real possession is his memory. In nothing else is he rich, in nothing else is he poor." So in memory I go back and recall many things. First I turn to March 4, a year ago, when Mr. Cymrot took a few moments to tell me he enjoyed reading about "my whispering pines". Since then I have heard from others and I have in memory and reality made many trips to my hills, my pines, and my rivers.

Here I am reminded of these verses from a poem I like, "Contentment" by Laura H. Wood.

It's a small world I live in —

The miles I travel are few.

With always familiar faces

And a sameness each day in my view.

Yes, mine is a simple and beautiful world.

And mine is a lucky star.

And I am contented and happy to live

In my world with things as they are.

Spring's memory; our land is a place of exultancy and strong joy where the trees bend to see themselves in the clear smooth waters.

Then I looked across the quiet hills and saw the leaves of green, while beyond there was a breeze at play. The day was lovely with birds calling to their mates and spring time budding forth everywhere.

Summer time; Sanborn River again. Slow, drift of "Boat" offering deep solitude unbroken except for the sound of the water and the splash of a muskrat or the "Pree" of an active flock of Redwings, resplendent in breeding plumage. I even recall the lush meadows with buttercups and daisies, the over mounting heat of the afternoon and the jingle of the bobolinks, wings, feathers, and songs, become a part of our legacy.

Fall, our land a place of harvest; cornshocks and enormous pumpkins, the moon hung low and orange at the frosty edge of the trees, a place of silence. The forest flared in glory among the pines and the mountains marched off into faded autumn haze.

It's a fabulous country, yours and mine where stories from years of outdoors come to the surface of memory. One can journey as far as he wishes, turning from winter to summer or summer to now, when our land is a place of deep snows piled on branches of spruce and fir, howling winds, and wintry mountain sides, darkened air in powdery snow, and wild mornings revealing frozen lakes, snow bound lodges, the

HIGHWAY COMMISSION AWARDS OVER $2.6 MILLION IN CONTRACTS

The State Highway Commission reports that six projects were awarded to contract during the month of February totaling an estimated $2,630,000.

Two Interstate projects were awarded. One calls for the initial stage in the construction of a section of main line of the Portland I-295 loop system near the north shore of Fore River in the vicinity of Thompson Point. The work involves placing a sand mat blanket several feet in depth across the mud flats from the channel of the river extending northerly 0.6 of a mile to about 600 feet south of Congress St. As part of the project a 0.5 of a mile access road will be built for the use of heavy construction equipment to eliminate wear and tear on adjacent city streets.

The second Interstate project calls for the next phase in the construction of the Piscataqua River Bridge which will carry I-95 between Kittery and Portsmouth. This second project is for the fabrication and erection of the steel girders and cross-bracing steel members in the fourteen main approach spans. The supporting piers and abutments are being built under contract No. 1 now in progress.

Highway construction in Rockport will continue modernization of Route 90 from the end of the recently completed section, just west of the junction at Route 17, extending westerly for 1.2 miles.

Three traffic signal projects were awarded during the month. Installations will be made at two intersections in Biddeford, and at two locations in South Portland.

On March 3, 1969, the State Highway Commission reported 78 federal aid and state projects in various stages of construction. The total estimated cost, including preliminary engineering, right of way and construction amounts to: Primary, $7,120,741; Secondary, $6,368,925; Interstate, $7,276,701; Highway Beautification, $24,000; State Bridge Act, $806,000; State Projects, $2,131,650; Emergency Relief Funds, $259,100; for a grand total of $23,967,117.
